A: The page is from Facebook and if I can see it's using some JavaScript it's unlikely that a simple browser cookie will get you through. You will need to use a third party library for this. There are Python modules (e.g. python-facebook, Python-facebook-sdk, python-social-auth) which would make it easier. If you look at the source code, the question is how to add it to your site. You can't expect Facebook's engineers to do that for you. They may have some sort of API for this purpose, but it may be pay-to-play. Q: Cannot add Webpack Loader with Regex, only with path I am trying to use the loaders in webpack, but I only want to apply them to a certain folder. For example, if I write something like this: loaders: [{ test: /\.js?$/, loader: 'babel-loader', exclude: /(node_modules|myfolder)/ }] The loader does not seem to apply to any file except for the one directly with the given path in it. If I change the path to just be "myfolder/", it works perfectly fine. Does 2d92ce491b
